

14001Academy vs. competitor websites

With our handy comparison matrix, you can determine whether it's acceptable to attempt self-implementation of ISO 14001, using assorted internet downloads for your documentation. The matrix similarly illustrates the collection of products and services at the 14001Academy, as well as a comparison with what other websites provide. Check it out and see which method suits your company best.

View the advantages and disadvantages of scouring the web for each ISO 14001 document, compared to the comprehensive suite of document templates and professional help we provide at the 14001Academy.

Online competitors	14001Academy
Documents come in only one language, usually English.	Our documents come in three languages: English, Spanish, and German. Our products are trusted worldwide, in over 45 countries.
The documentation is a mish-mash of detailed policies and procedures that are really meant for big corporations.	Our documentation was created specifically for small and medium business. Thus, it doesn't have complicated documents you won't need, and templates are shorter and less complicated.
Documentation is only available as a full toolkit.	You can purchase single documents individually. And, if determine at a later date that you would prefer to have the full Toolkit, we will subtract the price you already paid for individual templates. We'll never charge you twice for the same template.
You get the toolkit and only the toolkit – no help or support.	We offer all of the following for FREE: a 24/7 virtual consultant, one consultation with an expert through telephone or Skype, professional review of three finished documents, online forums, advice on which documents are required and which are optional, and unlimited support through email.