

Advisera vs. do it all on your own

Utilize our convenient comparison matrix for a speedy analysis of the advantages and disadvantages of self-implementation of EU GDPR without any expert assistance. You can also analyze the advantages of using our experts' knowledge of Advisera to help you complete your EU GDPR project.

Our comparison matrix will quickly help you see which alternative is best for your company, considering overall money and effort, difficulty, and comprehensiveness of the documentation.

So, what will it be? Complete your EU GDPR project all by yourself, or with the group of professionals at Advisera?

Implement all on your own	Advisera
"Our employees can design and develop the documents, and that won't cost us a penny."	Our study demonstrates that doing it on your own can cost 500% more than purchasing our toolkit. Your employees would consume several hundred man-hours developing documents from scratch. These hours could be productively used in other areas for the growth of the company.
"Our employees are well organized and have sufficient experience in similar projects. They can make all these documents rapidly."	It requires about half the time to complete EU GDPR projects with our templates. If your employees have never applied this specific regulation, it will probably take them numerous attempts to get it right.
"Our employees understand regulations. They'll search through the regulations and make sure that nothing gets overlooked."	Those implementing the regulation for the first time are 5 times more likely to fail an EU GDPR compliance audit. You can't understand the criteria for the compliance audit by merely reading the regulation. Advisera gives you the guidelines on how to implement the regulation through document templates, video tutorials, document reviews, and one-on-one meetings.

Those free documents you find online are typically missing one-third of the documented information the regulation requires.	Our toolkit encompasses all mandatory documents required by EU GDPR, and also some non-mandatory documents that are commonly used.
Those free toolkits have templates collected from multiple sources and authors. This means documents are based on different structures, and may not even observe the same rules.	One team of experts developed all of our documents, keeping them coherent and related. To assist you in understanding interactions between documents, every document is cross-linked with its accompanying documents.
Free toolkits usually have an inadequate structure.	Our toolkit is well aligned with the needs of small- and medium-sized companies. Templates are placed in folders, in the exact sequence in which they need to be implemented.
“Our employees know their respective processes, so they can make the documents that are customized for their needs.”	You can adapt our templates to your specific needs – in reality, you can amend as much as you want to use them in your daily work.
Starting the work from scratch means that you have quite a lot of work to do.	Our documents are 80 to 90% completed, and they have guidance on what needs to be filled in.
Self-implementation leaves you on your own, even when you get stuck.	The Advisera delivers the following support as part of the toolkit: a one-on-one consultation with an expert, review of your documentation, and templates that clearly show what needs to be filled in and what can be left out.

Click here to schedule a free demo of the EU GDPR Documentation Toolkit that will help you implement a standard using Advisera expert support.