EUGDPRAcademy vs. a consultant

If you are looking for EUGDPR consultants, then you must examine what other options are there to help you out, with both effectiveness and cost efficiency. The EUGDPRAcademy or an outside consultant—what suits you best? We offer you a comparative analysis for using both a consultant and the EUGDPRAcademy.

Utilizing our helpful comparative matrix, you can analyze which option is most feasible for you. You will gain information to make the right decision based on several factors, for example: project consultancy expense, project timeline, and updated knowledge and expertise.

Outside Consultant	EUGDPRAcademy
A knowledgeable consultant is costly because of the time a consultant needs to dedicate to being onsite in your organization. On the other hand, if you hire a bad consultant, it will cost you even more.	You don't need to pay for an on-site consultant; therefore, the project cost goes down by 90%. When you use EUGDPRAcademy online expert advice, it will cost only a fraction of what you would have to pay for a consultant.
The consultant is supposed to do all the work on the project, which includes interviewing personnel, data analysis, document creation, and corrections where required.	90% of the documentation is already completed in EUGDPRAcademy. All you need to do is customize it based on your organizational needs.
A consultant will fully customize documents for your company policies, processes, and procedures.	Our templates are fully editable; you can keep what you want, how you want it.

All document development and editing are done by the consultant, so you save time for other activities in your company.	When documents are developed by your employees, it gives them ownership. They are more likely to follow the processes because they consider it to be their own creation, made through their own involvement.
All project steps are usually specified by consultants, including what things you should exclude from your management system's scope, and where your efforts should be focused.	We also provide you with a complete project plan, which includes step-by-step guidance and expert support throughout your implementation.
Consultants who work with you in your company learn the secrets of your company, and are well aware of weaknesses and strategies.	No confidential information can go out, because you develop the documentation on your own.
Reviews and corrections are done by the consultant to make sure you are compliant with EUGDPR.	We also do this. Depending on the toolkit you have chosen, we will review a certain number of documents as part of the service included in the toolkit.
EUGDPR compliance requirements are determined by the consultant. It helps you determine what to do to be compliant.	We do this too. Our documentation template encompasses all requirements of EUGDPR, and it provides counseling on what should be omitted and what should not. Finally, we are always here to talk with you for matters that concern you about auditors.

You will also have your consultant to perform your audit, and be assured of compliance.	EUGDPRAcademy does not do that. For us, it's a conflict of interest when the same person designs and finally audits the system. It can result in compliance failure.
Because the consultant takes ownership of project completion, employees do not have the required understanding of how to maintain the documentation. They can eventually avoid its use and that causes everything you have gained in implementing the system to be lost.	When you complete the project on your own, with EUGDPRAcademy support and your employees' involvement, your employees have the understanding required to maintain, improve, and use the system whenever required.
The charges for a consultant are defined at the time of project award. If you are not satisfied with the work, you still need to pay him for his effort.	You are required to pay for our templates only once, and you can re-use these templates as you need them and when you need them.
Implementation becomes quicker with a consultant on site.	This process may take a little more time. You may require 30% more time with our EUGDPRAcademy documentation & support.
The consultant is a professional and nice person. The company likes him to be on site.	Of course, we can't hang out at your workplace, but we are equally nice and professional. :)
